From the North, Anti-tank and grenadier battalions of the 162nd and 256th Infantry Divisions engaged in a battle to contain elements of the 10th Red Army, 29th and 4th tank divisions trying to break out of the Bialystok pocket. On the South flank, Russian tanks did surprise Gen Guderian's 17th Panzer Division on the third day of Barbarossa. The Slonim-Minsk road was the main supply line for the German forces.
