

You eyeballin' me boy?

This cmbb test shows the distances in metres at which infantry in cover (stationary, not firing) will be spotted by enemy infantry approaching from the right. Both sides are veterans, sunny summer midday, NOT in foxholes.

(Note - distances vary greatly during play according to different weather/ visibility/ season etc)

Examples - a unit in woods won't be spotted until an enemy closes to within about 20 metres.

In wheat he'll be spotted at about 100m.

In open ground he'll be spotted from well over 800m.
